OOTACAMUND

The principal town in the Nilgiris is about 7,500 ft. above sea-level; and although the mornings in winter are frosty, snow is unknown. The average annual rainfall is about 60 inches

It is the summer head-quarters of the Madras Government and of the Governor of Madras. Government house being an imposing structure in beautiful grounds

The Nilgiris Ry runs from Mettupaliyam, at the foot of the ghats, to Ooty via Coonoor. There is a splendid motoring road from Mettupaliyam to Ootacamund (32 miles via Coonoor, Wellington and Aruvankadu) which is kept in perfect order, and the scenery all along is magnificent. A motor 'bus service also plys between Coonoor and Ooty twice daily in each direction. All the main roads in the Nilgiris are exceeding fine. The whole of Ooty is lit electrically and there is a good water supply

PALITANA STATE—Bombay Presidency

A second-class State in the Gohelwad division of the Kathiawar Political Agency. Area, 288 square miles. Revenue about Rs. 7 lakhs. The chief town, Palitana, is a station on the Bhavnagar State Railway. Palitana is justly celebrated for its Jain temples on the Satrunjaya Hill, situated within the Palitana State jurisdiction. This hill is sacred to Adinath, the deified founder and organizer of Jainism. The entire summit is covered with temples, amongst which the most famous are those of Adinath Kumar Pal, Vimalsha, Sampriti Raja and the Chawmukh. The last is the most lofty and can be clearly distinguished at a distance of 25 miles. Satrunjaya is the most sacred of the five sacred hills of the Jains. Owing to the special sanctity of Satrunjaya hill Jains from all parts of India in affluent circumstances are anxious to construct temples on the hill, and all members of the faith feel it a duty to perform if possible, at least one Pilgrimage here during their life. Palitana is chiefly noted for its breed of horses. Population (1921) about 58,000 souls

TUTICORIN—Madras Presidency

The terminus of the South Indian Railway, 446 miles from Madras and the chief port of the district, affording good shelter to small boats, but owing to the shallowness of the water, steamers of even moderate draught have to anchor some seven miles from the shore. Tuticorin is also a municipal town and of great commercial importance. It lies on the Srivaikuntam taluq of the Tinnevelly district, and is situated on the west shore of the gulf of Manaar and between the mouths of the Tambrapani and the Vippar. There are large cotton mills in the town and extensive salt factories; there is limited accommodation for travellers at the railway station. Languages spoken:—English and Tamil

There is neither a Dak Bungalow nor a Travellers' Rest-house in the town

A Valuable Book for Engineers in India.

Fully Illustrated. 1931 Pages. In Two Volumes. Rs. 20.

MATERIALS OF CONSTRUCTION

AS USED IN INDIA

The Nature, Production and Use. With Twelve Hundred and Twenty-nine Illustrations including many folding Plates.

By NAGENDRA NATH MITRA, A.M.I.E. (India).

EXTRACT FROM PREFACE.

" In writing the present work the author has in view chiefly the needs of Students in Engineering, Practising Engineers, Builders and Architects in India desirous of obtaining some knowledge of the Chemistry and Strength of Materials used in Construction, specially of those available and produced in the country. Most of the information regarding Indian materials was scattered in the publications of the various Government departments throughout India, and the writer wishes to express his most sincere appreciation of the courtesy shown and the most valuable help rendered to him by the Chief Engineer to the Governments of the Punjab, United Provinces and Madras, the Inspector-General of Forests to the Government of India and the Director of the Geological Survey of India and the Indian Railway Board. The British Engineering Standard Association, London, have also kindly given permission to extract from their Specifications and Reports the main technical provisions. To all and to each of them the author's best thanks are due. Many standard works in the English language relating to Materials of Construction have been referred to and consulted in the preparation of this work. Extracts have also been made from the Scientific America, Building News, Engineering, Indian Engineering, Iron Age, the Minutes of the Proceedings of the Institution of Civil Engineers, the Smithsonian Tables, etc. Information derived from them has been acknowledged as far as possible upon the page where it is given. On all sides from Scientific men, Manufacturers of Machinery and Materials, the information asked for has been most willingly given. The author desires, therefore, to express his thanks to the Firms who have placed valuable information at his disposal and have furnished blocks or drawings from which the illustrations of the machines described in the book have been prepared, and for which acknowledgment is made in the text."

SUMMARY OF CONTENTS :

Indian Engineering says:—"The amount of information imparted is vast and the work really forms a library of itself. The author's object in writing the present work is to supply engineers, students of engineering, builders, architects and contractors desirous of obtaining some knowledge of the subjects treated of with the necessary information, especially that relating to the chemistry of metals and that relating to the strength of those materials available and produced in this country. The author has drawn on many authoritative and standard works and journals for his information which is replete and up-to-date. The volumes are sure to meet with a hearty response and reception by those for whom they are intended. Mr. Mitra has rendered signal service to India by the publication of his books. It is just works of this nature that make for progress."
